

Sample Garden Journal Pages

There are many ways to create your garden journal. Here are some sample garden journal pages to get you started.

In the 2009 March/April Hobby Farm Home, read more about creating an artful garden journal. Check out these sample garden journal pages below to get you started.

How does your garden journal grow?

You can make notes on daily activities and observations

You can jot down recipes to try with your home-grown goodies

You can track weather patterns

You can fill your garden journal with details about each plant

You can paste photos and article clippings

You can keep track of your favorites

You can plan a fall garden

You can track growth

You can sketch garden plans

You can list seeds saved or bought and planted --

Use your journal to help you keep your garden growing strong, offer a history and record for other gardeners -- and make gardening more enjoyable in whatever way pleases you most!
